COMMENTARY

Despite ongoing Covid-19 uncertainty and international trade tension, August saw positive returns across almost all regions, in what was the best August for global stock (equity) markets in decades.

The top performer was the tech-heavy Nasdaq in the US, where a number of large technology companies made double-digit gains over the month. The S&P 500 also delivered a strong performance to reach a new record high. Despite ongoing trade friction between the US and China, the Chinese stock market and wider emerging markets also performed well. The European and UK stock markets rose more modestly. Global government bond performance was flat over August, as appetite for riskier assets increased and macroeconomic data painted a picture of improving growth. Corporate bond performance was also broadly flat. In high yield bond markets, lower-quality bonds were pushed higher by income-seeking investors searching for good yields. We made only small changes to our allocation in August, as we find it hard to identify any particular catalysts that will lead the market higher or lower in the near term. So, on the one hand, governmental and central bank support continue, but, on the other, Covid-19 cases rose in some European countries. Even so, we slightly reduced allocation to bonds and European equities and slightly increased allocation to US and Asian equities and cash.

RISK AND REWARD INDICATOR

This risk indicator is based on historical data and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The category may shift over time and is not guaranteed.

Funds of category 4 have shown in the past low to medium volatility. Volatility describes how much the value of the fund went up and down. The shares of a fund of category 4 might be subject to low to medium fluctuations based on the historical volatility.

The following are additional risks not covered by the risk and reward category:

Emerging Markets: Less economically developed markets can involve greater risks than well developed markets. For example, political unrest and economic downturn may be more likely and could affect the Fund value.

Counterparty Risk: The insolvency of institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments may expose the Fund to a loss.

Fund of Funds – Liquidity Risk: The Fund invests in other funds. Its liquidity depends upon those funds. If they suspend or defer the payment of redemption proceeds, the Fund's ability to meet redemption requests may also be affected.

Derivatives Risk: Derivatives are used in an attempt to reduce risk or for investment purposes. Use of derivatives could cause share prices to fluctuate which may result in the Fund suffering a loss.

Credit Risk - Bonds: Bonds are a form of loan, the value of which depends on the issuer being able to make its payments. There is a risk the issuer will fail to do so. Although the Fund generally invests in bonds with high ratings, this does not guarantee an issuer's ability to pay.

Credit Risk - Non-Investment Grade Bonds: These are bonds issued by entities considered to be more likely to default. If an issuer defaults this may result in the Fund suffering a loss.

Currency Risk: The value of the Fund may fall or rise as a result of changes in exchange rates from overseas investments.

More information in relation to risks in general may be found in the KIID and the "Risk Factors" section of the prospectus.
